FROM NORTH CAROLINA

DEWEY, N. C., Sept. 8, 1903.

Editor of the News:

We people are pulling fodder and making mornth. The descendants of John White's colony, who merged into the Hatteras tribe of Indians, introduced fodder pulling, and was to any man who urged any other method.

Incidentally, allow me to remark that the "Lost Colony of the Roanoke" is a matter mistaken by nearly every historian. It will be remembered that historians relative to early attempts of North Carolina colonization claimed that White was not gone three years and came back finding no trace of his colony. By agreement with the word "recreation" carried on the tree, if they left voluntarily, they would tell where they had gone. White fell into the ways of the buccannier, and was about three years. On his return he found no traces, no colonists, but the word "recreation" carried on the tree. It is now known that a crooked Croatan Scout and took up with Hatteras Indians. Their posterity are called "Croatanians," and are half breeds, a colony of which lived around Seufelltown, in Robinson county, this State. They have the names of some of the early settlers and the characteristics of both whites and Indians. They have a patriarchal form of government, don't ask or seek social equality with whites. They have the hospitality for which the son of the forest is famed, and will camp on the trail of an enemy. With bravery of the Indian, they make bad foremen. During the civil war, when the Union troops captured Ft. Fisher and Newbern, they pressed all the negroes into service. Among others they pressed an old man named Lowery, who was a Croatan. Indians won't work for themselves much less a captor, as was found by the Spaniards in the conquest of Mexico and Peru. Old man Lowery was sent for insubordination. His sons, Steve and Henry Berry, the latter as brave and as energetic as King Philip or Tecumseh, meditated vengeance. Every deserter from the Confederacy or camp follower, who had any part in their father's execution, but the dust when the cruel war was over.

They had a gang who did their bidding, and for several years they killed local officers and government detectives, who tried to effect their capture. In the swampy they kept hidden, and for years a reign of terror prevailed in this section. At length Henry Berry Lowery was slain by treachery of one of his own men, the gang was broken up, and the vendetta brought these people into notice, and all the facts attested their tradition to the "Lost Colony of Roanoke."

But I must know something of old friends: Where is old man Voile, who hailed from the wilds of East Tennessee about thirty years ago? He settled on the land of Mr. Matilda, widow of Judge R. T. Garrett. As a fighter he eventually had the call over any other man quick or dead. He was father of all such who handle the shoe-hammer and last, and I used to go over and have my shoes mended. With volubility bordering on eloquence he fought his battles for again in my presence, till my hair would raw like quills on the fretful porcupine. He was also a mighty "hoecanal" doctor in the earth, and his technical terms were "strintings," "tonigans," and "hell-back." A mid case required a "strintings," a graver one a "tonigan," while the "hell-back" was a very remedy.

Where could I find Jim Voile, Philip Voile, and son-in-law Henry Otterson? Jim was his father's own son, and Philip was a nipped, a wit and a mighty cracker in the earth. He was known as a holy terror on the warpath, and a very nimble pre-faricator. He could, also, make a light body when he rendered the Arkian-

THE ABOLITION OF MIDDLE AGE

Half a century ago a man of forty-five was regarded almost elderly and a woman of the same age was expected to have long since cut herself adrift from all this blinding her to her youth and to assume the appearance and deportment of a staid, exemplary matron. All this has changed in a particularly interesting way, of which the prominent feature is a seeming contradiction. If the three-year-old child of today is as knowing as the six-year-old of half a century ago, and the ten-year-old boy of today is in many respects quite as much a man as was his grandfather at eighteen, one might expect that in due gradation the modern middle-aged man should be beyond his years. But such is not the case.

Middle age, so far from hurrying on into senility, so far even from standing still, would seem actually to have stepped backward and marched along-side of youth. There is a jauntiness, a buoyancy, an elasticity about the middle age of today at which our fathers would have shaken their heads as unseemly. The gulf which once separated the middle-aged parent from his children has been filled up. The curtain which shrouded the middle-aged man generally from the eyes of youth and which caused him to be regarded with respect, if not awe, has been lifted, and in obedience to the same influences which have made the schoolmaster the friend of the school-boy and the regimental officer almost the comrade of his men, the middle-aged man of today is never so happy as when working or playing upon an equality with, and actually in competition with, youth.

As with men so it is with women. Social statisticians tell us that the age at which women are considered most eligible for marriage has been notably advanced of late years, and we know that the lament of many a match-making mamma is that the most dreaded rivals of her darling are not to be found so much among women who are not many years ago would have been relegated to the ranks of hopeless old maidhood. The fact that the middle-aged lady of today is much younger in manner and tastes is, of course, not the only reason for this, but it is among the most potent, — The London Spectator.

AN OFFER NOT ACCEPTED

The Cincinnati Times-Star, commenting on the verdict in the Caleb Powers case, said:

"It is not a verdict on evidence. It is a verdict on both law and fact. Without a scintilla of evidence upon which to base the finding, the jury has condemned this man to a felon's death."

Whereupon Mr. Arthur Goebel, brother of the murdered man, made that paper the following offer:

"I hereby offer you five hundred dollars to publish your verdict in the Times-Star the evidence given on both sides in Caleb Powers' last trial, so that your readers may judge for themselves by the entire evidence whether your statements be true. I will furnish you on request the official stenographer's complete transcript. Five hundred dollars will not defray the expenses of your printing of the evidence, yet it is worth much more than the cost of printing the evidence to you that your readers should believe your editorial statements true. If you accept the above proposition I shall and one-hundred for your publishing in connection with the evidence in the Caleb Powers case, the testimony of Ex-Governor W. O. Bradley, of Kentucky, in the Ripley case, the cost of printing will not be exorbitant."

It is needless to say that the Times-Star did not accept the offer.

If the Republicans were a little more consistent, what they might say along certain lines might be entitled to more consideration.

When Jeff and White, the alleged Breathitt county assassins, were on trial at Cincinnati they clamored for a death sentence for both, and were loud in the denunciation of the one juror, Jasper King, who took a different view of the matter. Now they are equally bitter in their cursing of the jurors in the Powers case, who did the very thing they wanted King to do.

Perseverance and prayer will enable you to surmount any obstacle in the road to permanent success.

BATTLESHIP KENTUCKY

The Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis Railway has just had completed for distribution a large order of pictures of the Battleship Kentucky, which is a work of art and should be in every Kentucky home. The pictures are reproduced from a very fine painting, copyrighted photograph sent to Mr. Baroque Mueller, the official photographer for the United States Navy, taken as the ship is leaving New York harbor for a cruise. It is done in colors, the grey fighter slowly plowing its way through the carefully shaded green of the sea, and carrying at the front of her flagstaff the stars and stripes in their natural red, white and blue.

It is admirably suited for framing, but as it is gotten out on heavy, deeply enameled cardboard, it will prove an ornament to any home without framing. Six copies postage sent to L. J. Irwin, G. P. A. of the popular Henderson Route, at Louisville, Ky., will bring this beautiful picture to your home.

REMEDY FOR FEUDS

Thomas M. Morrow, editor of the Jackson Hustler, advances in the following interview what he conceives to be the best remedy for the elimination of the feuds that have so long been a curse to Breathitt county. He said: "After a careful study of the question and with the experience gained by a number of years' residence there, I am prepared to state that there is but one remedy for the murderous feuds existing in Southeastern Kentucky, and that is this: When a murder is committed let troops be hurried to the scene, martial law be declared and officials from an outside county be appointed to try the murderer and punish his crime. Then, most important of all, let the entire course of the trial, judges, jurors, witnesses' fees, the transportation and other expenses of the militia, be borne by the county instead of the state in which the crime is committed. When the debt is added on one of these mountain communities and they have to pay the freight, it will bring them to a swift realization of the state of things, and they will be as eager to prevent crime as they have hitherto to encourage it. If it bankrupts the county let it do so, for that system will drive the feudists from its borders."

LET OTHERS WORK

Undoubtedly the high price of cotton will curtail its consumption and work a hardship to the mills. Viewed from another standpoint and one favored by the people of the South and Southwest, the returns from this year's yield will be equal to or above the average.

This means prosperity for St. Louis and the neighboring trade territory. Brown and Sulley may manipulate, may make the Cotton Exchange their playground, but as long as they keep prices at the high level little objection will be found in this section of the country. A young man named Letter once contributed several millions to the producers through a wheat deal. The Armoura have not neglected to maintain high prices when other speculators were in the market ready to play the game. Many farmers have learned to wait and profit while the big operators learn. It is a scheme which does some harm, but at the same time works a little good. Brown and Sulley are welcome to all the wool they get from the New York lambs—the South can stand it.

A committee was recently appointed to make a trip through Illinois, Indiana and Ohio for the purpose of inspecting and learning the latest and best methods of caring for the insane. This trip was made with the object of determining the best plan for the construction of the state insane asylum again at Norfolk, Neb., which asylum burned some time ago. This committee has reported in favor of the cottage plan instead of one large building, and it is believed that the state board of public lands and buildings will consider this plan favorably.

William Leathers, a young farmer of Boyle county, died of poisoning as the result of coming in contact with poison oak while clearing a fence row.

In a fight at a camp meeting at Mt. Victory, Pulaski county, Wm. Bolton, a constable, killed two brothers named Richmond and was himself slain by Columbus Garrison.

Judge Clifton J. Pratt, of Madisonville, was named as the republican nominee for circuit judge of that district at the convention held at Princeton and has accepted the nomination.

Dr. Nelson V. Frewitt, a prominent young physician of Winchester, aged 32 years, died at St. Joseph's Hospital where he had been operated on for appendicitis.

Some good friend to Mr. Payne should hasten to inform him that the sooner he quits the post office department the sooner the statute of limitations will operate.

UNCLE SAM'S VACANT FARMS

The rush of Texas home-seekers to secure choice portions of 300,000 acres of State land recently opened for settlement recalls similar scenes at the opening of Oklahoma and of the "Cherokee Strip" and serves to remind us how vast are the areas in the United States still unutilized and untitled.

The Texas land would not make many ranches of the wasteful dimensions common in the southwest, but it would divide into 3,000 good farms. The largest ranch in the State, the Fairview, consisting of former public lands which the State bartered for a new capital building. And there is still more Texas land available, all of which belongs to the State, not to the nation.

Excluding Alaska, much of whose soil is available for agriculture, the country has more than a billion acres of public lands, besides those belonging to the states, enough to make 7,500,000 quarter-section farms if all were available for use, which may be doubted. Last year over fourteen million acres, nearly 90,000 quarter-sections, were taken up. This was an amount almost 50 per cent greater than in 1901, three times as great in 1897, and three times as great as any year of our history except 1886.

Not only has Uncle Sam plenty of farms left, but some of them are good farms in active and increasing demand. —New York World.

CHEAP LANDS

For Home-seekers and Colonies.

The country along the Cotton Belt Route in Southwest Missouri, Arkansas, Northwest Louisiana and Texas offers the greatest opportunities for home-seekers. Mild climate, good water, cheap building material, abundance of fuel, and soil that will often in a single season yield enough to pay for a good year's crop. Land can be bought as cheap as $2.50 an acre, prairie land at $4 and $5 per acre, bottom land at $5 and $6 per acre up, improved or partly cleared land at $10 and $15 per acre. Some fine propositions for colonies—tracts of 2,000 to 5,000 acres at $4 to $10 per acre—fine money in this for a good year's crop. Fruit and truck lands in the famous peach and tomato belt of East Texas at $10 to $20 per acre. Write us for information about rates, excursions, dates, etc., or literature descriptive of this great country and let us help you find a home that will cost you no more than the rent you pay every year.

The State campaign is moving on.

Mrs. Barnes, wife of the noted evangelist, Geo. O. Barnes, died at Sanibel Island, Fla., on the 14th.

Rev. Sam Jones stopped preaching long enough at Carterville, Ga., to engage in a fight with the postmaster.

It is said that a Kentucky man is importing snails. He doubtless wants to pit them against the Republican State ticket.

Six masked men not satisfied with robbing a bank in Okla., of $5,077, went to the stable of the cashier, stole his horse and buggy and made his escape.

One of the greatest "Infant Industries" that worries the Republican party is providing official stations for the ex-Democrats without giving up every important office.

Mr. M. L. Jarvis, of Albany, has been nominated by the Republicans in the 27th judicial district for Circuit Judge. The Somerset Journal says the bitterness engendered will not be healed in ten years.

The trial of Curtis Jett for the willful murder of James Cockrell, is now on at Cynthiana. The indications are that the accused will stretch a rope instead of serving a life sentence for murdering J. B. Marcom. The assassin must go.

The Republicans of Taylor county have nominated a gentleman named Durham to make the race against Mr. W. I. Meador for Circuit Court Clerk. We have no acquaintance with Mr. Durham. He may be a running man, but we are satisfied he will not be in the suburbs of his election when William Isaac trots in.

Caleb Powers has had his speech, defusing himself, put in pamphlet form and is having it sold to raise funds to enable him to get his case before the Court of Appeals. A few days ago Hon. John D. White said, concerning his speech, "I don't see why the Democratic party don't have it published and scattered broadcast. It is the best campaign document they could get."

Congressman Vincent Boring's death which occurred at London on Wednesday the 16th inst., was received with sadness throughout the Eleventh district. He was serving his third term in Congress when the end came, and was the only Republican elected to the National House at the last election. He was an untiring worker and had the respect of his party throughout the State. His death will probably displace a number of gentlemen who are holding responsible positions through his influence.

An article in last week's issue of the Spectator attempted to show Mr. S. H. Hurt a bitter partisan, but regardless of the theoretical correctness of the theorizing, the occasion and the occasion's conduct are such, that it is likely to give from such misrepresentation a paper so thoroughly tied down by party prejudice as to refuse to publish Mr. Hurt's announcement as a candidate after it had been turned into that office. It attempted to ridicule the statement that Mr. Hurt is conservative and labor hard to arouse political passion and line up party against party. Such efforts are common in political warfare, but in this case it does not apply. Mr. Hurt is a Democrat and has no apology to offer for his honest convictions in matters of this kind, but while this is true everybody knows him to be broad and liberal in political views. They know him to be one of the ablest attorneys in the State, a man well and thoroughly qualified in every particular to discharge the duties of Circuit Judge. The great question in this race is not the political affiliations of the respective candidates, but their qualifications. Mr. Hurt is a gentleman and so is Mr. Baker. They are both citizens of our town, identified with its welfare and happiness. They are both lawyers of many years experience, yet the records in the Circuit Court Clerk's office show that Mr. Hurt, in the last ten years, has had twenty cases to Mr. Baker's one, and generally litigants seek and employ the ablest counsel. Mr. Hurt is a Democrat, not for office, but for principle. Mr. Baker is an ex-Democrat, a Republican young in years, young in party service.

Mr. Hurt, yielding to the many strong and urgent demands made on him both by Democrats and Republicans who believe he would make an ideal official, became a candidate; Mr. Baker, of his own volition, after using all means within the scope of modern politics, is likewise a candidate.

Mr. Baker, while making his race against Mr. Miller, urged the people to vote for the best qualified man. He did not claim support on other grounds than qualifications and his claims of superiority in the knowledge of law elicited much aid even from the opposite party. Both men are well-known, their talents are not hid; neither are supposed to be so narrow as to be partisan in official duty. The animosity of the past has no place in this race. It is one of the most important questions in which our party has an interest and accepting Mr. Baker's platform, qualifications, we are willing for the voters of this district, irrespective of party ties to say who shall be judge.

Mr. Hurt is in the vigor of life, with none of his natural faculties impaired; Mr. Baker, his senior by many years, unfortunately, has suffered a partial loss of the sense of hearing. It is important to have a man who knows the law and who can clearly hear the evidence in all cases. If Mr. Hurt is elected it will be done by conservative Republicans who believe qualifications the essential feature in this race, men who are willing to look to the good of the district rather than merely serving a party. His election cannot be accomplished by Democrats alone because they have not the voting strength and in reality would not be party victory. We believe that sufficient aid will be given by the Republicans of this district to elect him and if so feel certain that none will have cause to regret.

Snowball said in his Munfordville speech that Gov. Bradley turned over $1,100,000 to the Democrats. The truth is, as the records will show, he turned that amount over to W. S. Taylor, who got away with $800,000 before taking his departure to Indiana. When Mr. Beckham took charge of the reins of Government there were only $380,000 in the treasury.

Mrs. Carrie Nation, who is visiting relatives at Hopkinsville, threatens to use her hatchet on the window of a saloon there which bears the inscription, "All Nations Welcome Except Carrie and her hatchet." As she drove by the saloon she said: "I don't like that sign, and if it remains up I know a quicker way to remove it than buying a paint brush."

The Speaking.
Judge Jones finished his instructions to the grand jury at 10:30 last Monday, and at that hour the speaking commenced. Mr. H. C. Baker, the Republican candidate for Circuit Judge, being the first speaker. He spoke until the noon hour, making a bitter partisan address. The court house was well filled with Democrats and Republicans who gave the speaker close attention throughout, though there was but little applause. Mr. Rollin Hurt, who is also a candidate for Circuit Judge, began speaking at 12 o'clock, and the best test of his popularity was the large crowd that did without their dinner to hear him through. He is making this race solely upon his qualifications for the position, and notwithstanding there is a tremendous Republican majority against him in the district he expects to win at the November election. Judging from the applause accorded each speaker a majority of the voters in the court-house was evidently for Mr. Hurt.

In the afternoon Hon. John W. Lewis and Hon. M. Roy Yarbrough spoke to the Republicans.

Congressman Boring's death last week was the result of pneumonia, and while not allied with our party, yet, we recognized him as an able man, politician who won his leadership amid many struggles and over stubborn and aggressive opposition. He possessed some qualities we admired, some we disliked. His opposition was within his own party and consequently the bulk of his enemies as well as the majority of his warmest friends. Death settles all disputes, it brings all to one common level, the rich, the poor, the great, the obscure. Remember his virtues, his talents and his accomplishments, and consign his misgivings and mistakes to oblivion.

Quite a number of gentlemen are mentioned in the public prints to fill out the unexpired term in Congress of the late Mr. Boring. Among the most important names of Judge Denton, of Pulaski; Judge W. W. Jones, of Columbia; and Dr. W. G. Hunter, of Cumberland. No candidate has as yet made a public announcement.

We take it that the Somerset Journal regards the Adam County News as a step-brother, as a copy of its Fair edition about which so many complimentary notices have appeared, did not reach this office. Judging from the sayings of others it was a fine specimen of printing, a credit to both Editor Campbell and the city of Somerset.

As is usually the case a tremendous crowd of people were here Monday to witness the opening of the first day of the September term of the Adair circuit court. People began to arrive early in the forenoon and by eleven o'clock there was scarcely standing room upon the public square. Judge Jones opened court at twelve o'clock and before the noon hour he had finished his instructions to the grand jury and they were put to work.

There is not a great deal of new business for the term, hence the bulk of the cases before the court will be disposed of this week.

The following gentlemen comprise the jury: Geo. A. Hendrickson, foreman; Robt. E. G. O'Connell, Jr., Howard, R. L. B. Smith, R. B. H. Smith, J. P. Conover, S. T. Hughes, Chas. Bailey, Jr., W. C. Cox, J. P. Fene, and the grand jury. At the time we go to press the petit jury had not been selected.

It is highly commendable to the people of Adair county and also to the county judges that such an improved effort is being made to improve our public roads. In almost every part of the county the roads are being improved and many of them are receiving a good coat of gravel. Just outside the town limits the Glasgow road is being changed from mud to stone by the people interested in it. We understand that this work is led by Messrs. W. L. Walker, R. F. Paul and R. B. Logan. The Burkville road is backed up by the efforts of John Conover who is making one of the best and smoothest pieces of road near Columbia. On the Stanford road, beyond Russell's creek, C. S. Hartley is trying to keep up with the spirit of the times by placing a heavy coat of gravel on the creek hill. The people in the Breeding and Sparkle sections are making some excellent road by grading and graveling. The creek hill on the Greenburg road has been placed in excellent condition by the efforts of a stone so handy and abundant. In a few days work on the road from the town limits to the two bridges on the creek will be pushed and after it has been properly graded will receive a heavy coat of gravel by the people of the town and those who live in that section. The bridge on the road from every farmer would be in 3 or 4 days hauling gravel it would not be long until we would have the most desirable roads in the county. The county does without injury to any one. Every man ought to make some road that will stand the test of our winters. Don't wait for your neighbor to pull you out of the mud but pick up and set the example of progress.

We take a pride in placing compliments where they deserve being, and suttling our inclination, we desire to say a few words in favor of Mr. John B. Coffey, of this place, the well-known dealer in fancy horses, mules, etc. To begin, he is a lover of a horse, and no man can see the good qualities of an animal quicker. He can tell what a horse will bring and what it will do, and is more than willing to give fair prices for everything in the way of horse flesh by far. A few weeks before the late W. H. Hindman died, we asked him, knowing that he had been a trader all his life, who he considered the best judge of horses and mules in the county. He answered "John B. Coffey, not only in the State so far as my knowledge goes." Mr. Coffey is a member of the firm of Coffey Bros. & Robertson, who are extensive traders, and who are doing everything in their power to make Columbia the livestock stock market in the State.

The parents, who are left children, have the sympathy of the community.

Mr. A. S. Stapleton and his three sons, Miller, George and Ed, Bryant cultivated four acres of tobacco in partnership this season. The whole crop was cut and housed last Saturday afternoon and judging from a sample left at the store, it is not a better all round crop in Adair county. There is a great deal in knowing how to raise tobacco, but years of experience has taught these gentlemen all the points, and in growing the weed they begin with the intention of getting a good price for their product and labor. This crop will be set in the bulk if the growers can get their price if not it will be priced and shipped to market.

Hindman will attend Conference as a delegate and perhaps other members of the church. Messrs. R. B. Stultz, N. M. Katt and C. H. Harris will likely put in an appearance during the session.

It will be interesting to the wives of our farmers to know what a great industry poultry raising is in the United States, and we, therefore, give them the following: "The total value of the poultry and eggs we produced Columbia county last year was $281,753.97. The industry was worth more than all the cattle and hogs we slaughtered. It was worth more than the wheat raised, twenty-eight times as much territory and the value of our eggs alone was higher than that of the combined gold and silver products of the United States in any year since 1850, except in 1880, when the precious metal exceeded the eggs by $9,418,125.

WHOLE JOGS

"Whole hog" stock rambles at the expense of "wholesale" manufacturers the world over. Reckless speculators derange the market. But that is not the worst. Often thousands of ragged, shivering, and famished men are left to starve for want of employment. Never has this been better demonstrated than in connection with the great cotton gamble this year. The evils are not felt in St. Louis, but have paralyzed business in the cotton manufacturing centers. The mills are shut down. The hands are idle.

The forcible condemnation of this iniquitous speculation voiced by Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture was well timed.

In a leading editorial, the Washington Evening Star indicates the far-reaching industrial effects of the cotton market. The chief sufferers are the workers in the cotton mills. Next to them are the consumers of cheap cotton goods to whom these goods are a necessity in almost the same degree as food. The cotton producers also suffer; those who have made no profits from this corner and who will find the market in a state of collapse when their next crop is harvested. Losses follow for every trade having dealings with these interests. "Beyond this range of disturbance," says the Star, "is an even more serious one, affecting the interests of American exporters, who already are finding Europe active in an effort to supplant the American raw and manufactured cotton with their own."

These statements, by the Star, are correct. Since cotton manufactures are vital to the country's commerce both at home and abroad, "no situation presents a problem demanding serious attention. No way under the law now exists to reach the gambler in a nation's staple. Yet no more vicious strangling of business activity could be devised."—St. Louis Republic.

PELTYTON.

Mrs. Jesse Chastine is quite sick. A daughter of Mrs. Martha Pelly is sick with fever.

Joe Campbell and Arlie Pelly eloped to Tennessee and were married one day last week.

Miss Lillie Roberts, of Casey county, is visiting relatives and friends in this neighborhood.

Mr. Pete Zearbaugh, of Portland, Ind., is visiting his father-in-law, at this place.

Messrs. Flies Condit and W. L. Fess, of Casey Valley, were here one day last week.

Mr. John S. Ellis, of this place, was married to Miss Isabelle Payne, of Lunelle, last Wednesday. The groom is a prosperous young farmer of this place while the bride is a highly accomplished young lady of Casey county.

Mr. Tom Roberts celebrated his 78th birthday last Monday.

BRAIN LEAKS.

Every day leaves a trail. There are no this fall's fashions in last year's magazines.

The seed of doubt grows luxuriantly in the soil of jealousy.

The man who laughs is to be trusted; he is also to be feared.

The man who habitually carries a big stick seldom lacks the disposition to use it.

Many a professed Christian has taken good care that his pocketbook is not converted.

Rag time is what most people want when they vociferously cheer the rendition of a classic.

Some people ask forgiveness of their sin, just like they ask for a second helping of roast beef.

The man who is too intent on getting ahead in this world will find him self behind in the end.

We wouldn't blame some women for thinking that heaven is a place where there are no fishes to wash.

As a rule just when a man gets old enough money to enable him to do an immense amount of good he loses all desire to do it.

Some people spend so much time asking God for what they want that they have no time to thank Him for giving them what they need.

A man was recently found dead in bed at Paris with a stuffed monkey clamped in his arms. The monkey was examined and found to contain a letter and $6,000 in securities. The letter said that the man had been afraid of burglars and had hidden his money in the monkey for safe keeping.

The Republican press of Kentucky is still harping on the pardon record of Governor Beckham and are using it, not for a matter of enlightenment to the public, but instead are magnifying it out of all proportion in giving expressions of the view of infamy and prejudicing to public mind for political capital. We have not the slightest doubt that Gov. Beckham has granted pardons in some cases when he should not have done so and the news deplores the fact, as the pardoning power has been much abused by all our Governors. A newspaper, however, which is honest with the people when it starts out to tell the truth, should tell the whole truth and nothing but the truth. The Louisville Herald is not doing this as we see it. In the first place its object of making a target of Gov. Beckham's pardon is not for the purpose of correcting the pardon abuse, which is partially responsible for crime, but solely to defeat Governor Beckham for reelection. If the present Governor's record in pardons was so much worse than any of his predecessors in office, it would be legitimate political capital but such is not the case. During his term of office he has granted fewer pardons than either Governors Buckner and Brewe and fewer for manslaughter than either of them. Comparing his record with Governor Bradley, the only Republican Governor the State ever had, the record shows that Beckham has pardoned only half as many as Bradley and not near half as many for manslaughter. In fact, if these Republican papers wanted to get on with the public, they should go and ask Gov. Beckham, for the fact as he has pardoned fewer criminals than the penitentiary than any Governor in a quarter of a century.—Louisville News.

DON'T DO THAT.

Some men spend all their time looking around waiting for a soft job with a big salary attachment to strike them. Don't do that.

The honey bee spends the summer working to make honey for man to steal from him. But he knows no better. The miser hoards his money through privation and distress for some better to squander. Don't do that.

There are some people who want so badly to appear "well" that they look up the front of the house and live in a back room up-stairs all summer in order to have people believe they are at the seashore. Don't do that.

We know men so constituted that all the time they are, not carrying their favorite horses they are scolding their children. Don't do that.

He is not yet obsolete—we mean the fresh young doctor who tries to make people believe that he is busy by whipping his horses on the head run through the village street. There are men in other lines of business who try the same dodge, but they deceive no one. Don't do that.

We never see a young man who thinks it is smart to pretend that he is "half-seas over" without desiring to walk up to him and say, "Don't do that."

The biggest bore on earth is the old man who tries to act like a boy when there are a lot of young women around. Don't do that.

The foolish man wastes his morning hours in dreaming about what he intends doing during the afternoon. Don't do that.

It is possible for a man to build such a fine home that it can never seem like a home. Don't do that.

There are those who spend so much time trying to keep the ways of great men that they never have time to achieve greatness themselves. Don't do that.

Mr. Jas. Crawford, a leading farmer of Boone county, dropped dead while on his way home in a buggy.

PROVERBS UP TO DATE.

Better swallow your root just than lose your good friend.

Sweet are the uses of adversity; bitter are the uses of prosperity.

The rising generation owes much to the inventor of the alarm clock.

If vanity were a deadly disease, every undertaker would buy false noses.

When the last trumpet sounds, some women will ask Gabriel to wait a minute.

A good field of corn is one thing a farmer doesn't care to have crowded over.

The dead march is not necessarily the one that the musician has murdered.

The oil of infidelity is more to be dreaded than the vinegar of vituperation.

A walk may improve your appetite, but a tramp will eat you out of house and home.

The man who cannot be beaten is he who holds his head up when he has been beaten. [Everybody's Magazine.]

A popular belief has long ascribed to the Southern man a gallantry that makes him ready even to spare one of the weaker sex a trial by taking it upon his own shoulders. From the "time whereof" the memory of man runneth not to the contrary" the name of Southerner has been a symbol of a courtesy, especially as evoked toward women, that shows just a shade more gracefully than that displayed by men of the East, North or West. This conception of Southern deference to feminine charms is based upon the picture that nearly every one has their from memory or from authors who have sought to describe the un-falling politeness and urbane manner of the gentleman of the "old school." Truly enough this picture represents the type of a former day. Does it truly depict what might be called the corresponding type of the present, the average number of a class whose opportunities through birth and training have advanced it beyond the status of the hot polio?

Fearful Odds Against Him.
Bedridden, alone and destitute. Such, in brief was the condition of an old soldier by the name of J. J. Havens, Versailles, Ohio. It put him on his feet in short order and now he testifies: "I am on the road to complete recovery." Best on earth for Liver and Kidney trouble and all forms of Stomach and Bowel complaints. Only 50c. Guaranteed by druggist.

OBITUARY.

On the morning of Aug. 18, 1903, the angel of death came to the home of D. E. Sharp and claimed for his victim Kate, the beloved wife and mother. For some time the hearts of anxious loved ones had watched and waited, hoping she might recover, but despite all physical aid and loving hands could do the morning of the 18th dawned for us to learn that the last hope had faded and at 9 o'clock she peacefully breathed her last.

She was born in Adair county, Feb. 26th, 1831 and professed her faith in Christ in 1851. More than half of her life was spent for her Master.

She leaves father, mother, brothers, sisters, husband and a little babe who mourn for her but not as those who have no hope. May we so live that when the summons comes we can say all is well and meet her where parting is no more.

What Is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in Constipation, Headache or Liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjust this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at all druggists.

Sunday there came down on a Chesapeake and Ohio train from West Virginia a man who but little more than a year ago was a practicing lawyer in Jackson, Ky., but who, on the assassination of his friend Cockrell, gave up his home and took his family to another State, to begin life anew.

He returns to Kentucky now to give his testimony in behalf of justice. May the result be an important step in the redemption of a county which he left because justice was worse than a slavery there, its machinery in the hands of those who perverted it to their own black and bloody ends.—Courier-Journal.

Mr. John Harris Kelly, of Versailles, was married in Lexington last week to Mr. William L. Barker, of Columbus Ohio, formerly of Fayette county.

KNOW HIS BUSINESS.

One of the best known lawyers of the city had a case in court against a man who kept a cigar store opposite one of the large hotels. The man had in some way broken the law.

"Do you mean to say," asked the lawyer, "that you made a living out of that store for a year?"

"Yes," replied the man, "gentlemen come from the hotel early in the morning and ask for fifteen and twenty-cent cigars. I handed them out five centers and they don't know the difference."

"Impossible," said the lawyer.

"Oh, no," it "it," said the store-keeper calmly; "I have done it on you several times."—New York Times.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Salt and soda are excellent things for bee stings and spider bites. Boiled starch is much improved by the addition of a little sperm, salt, or gum arabic dissolved.

Salt will curdle new milk; hence, in preparing milk potridges, gravies, etc., the salt should not be added until the dish is prepared.

If you have a fish to keep over night and no ice to put it on, wrap it in a cloth made very wet with vinegar. Beefsteak may be kept in the same way.
